Nixon's Policy Speech Draws Mixed Feeling

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP)—North Vietnam today called President Nixon's speech on Vietnam a "defiance not only of the Vietnamese people but of the American people and all the peace-loving people in the world." While this reaction was expected, many Europeans expressed disappointment because of what they saw as a lack of progress toward peace.

peace. Reaction in Communist countries was hostile. In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu, in a stout endorsement of Nixon's speech, declared in a statement: "I believe that the policy to end the war and restore a genuine peace to Vietnam, which President Nixon has recalled in his address today, is the right policy which conforms with our just position."

OTHER REACTIONS
In the first reaction from non-Communist Asia, Japan's Foreign Ministry said that while the Nixon speech contained nothing substantially new, it helped reaffirm U.S. policies in Vietnam and also explained to the American people that serious efforts were being made to achieve peace.

In West Germany, Chancellor Willy Brandt welcomed Nixon's announcement of a solution in Vietnam, through the gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops, adding in a statement that he hoped the President's speech would "find a positive echo in Hanau."

Sens. J.W. Fulbright and Mike Mansfield called Tuesday for early hearings by the Foreign Relations Committee on President Nixon's

WAC Embroiled In Racial Study

(AP)—The chairman of the black Students Union at the University of Arizona called upon Western Athletic Conference officials today to expel Brigham Young University.

The Arizona student, Gale Dean, said this action should be taken because of what he called "the racist doctrine of the Mormon Church."

Dean and another official of the BSU at Arizona, John Heard, appeared before the WAC conference council, made up of directors of athletics.

Prior to the conference meetings which opened Monday, Commissioner Wiles Hallock said he did not look for any "extreme action" to be taken.

Any major recommendations made at the meeting here would have to be reviewed by presidents of the universities.

Dean told the conference council that the Mormon Church holds "that blacks are inherently inferior" and its policies call for "acceptance of a white supremacist doctrine on a national basis."

Heard said the conference should recognize "an athlete's right of conscience in regard to playing against any given school."

Hallock said Monday he feels the conference will take no sides in regard to a current controversy at the University of Wyoming.

Hallock said the thrust of the discussions would more likely be toward developing guidelines that might prevent severe black athlete-administration confrontations.

The discussions among athletic directors and faculty representatives of conference schools, meeting here through Wednesday, will not be aimed at placing blame.

"The faculty council will not say we support or don't support either the black athletes or Coach Easton and the administration," Hallock said.

Rather, he said, "if the exact facts can be known, we might evolve a policy to prevent that kind of."

He said Wyoming appears to have taken the first step in that direction by modifying its rule on participation by athletes in demonstrations. Previously, athletes were forbidden to demonstrate. Now, they are allowed to demonstrate if the activity does not interfere with the athletic schedule.

Hallock said he saw no inclination among the representatives to deal with the controversy in any way that would "threaten the unity of the conference."

Hallock said the discussion of BYU's racial policies were expected to be "very frank, very candid, very blunt."

Any recommendations made by the faculty council are subject to approval by the President's Council, the ultimate authority in the conference. This approval is usually routine, since faculty representatives usually are briefed by the presidents before they attend the council sessions.

Reorganization of College Of Religion Approved

By Lana Newton
Special to The Universe
Major reorganization of the College of Religion at Brigham Young University was announced Monday by President H. L. Wilkinson. The change approved by the Board of Trustees.

Daniel H. Ludlow, the dean of the college, said the proposal reorganization had been submitted for approval by the Board of Trustees last May.

Previously divided into undergraduate and graduate divisions, the College of Religious Studies will now be divided into subject matter departments.

Each department will serve both undergraduate and graduate levels in its particular area of instruction.

Three new departments have been created, and appointments have been made for an assistant dean and three new department chairmen.

The departments are the Department of Ancient Scripture, with Dr. Ellis T. Rasmussen as chairman; the Department of Church History and Doctrine, with Dr. LaMar C. Bennett as chairman; and the Department of Philosophy, with Dr. C. Terry Warner as chairman.

Each department will be divided into major areas of study. Within each major area of study, there will be specific course offerings.

The Department of Ancient Scripture will be divided into a Book of Mormon area and a Bible and Paul of Great Price area. The Department of Church History and Doctrine will be divided into a Church History area and a Latter-day Scripture and Doctrine area.

Dr. Daniel H. Ludlow will continue as dean of the college and Roy W. Doxey, professor of scripture, will serve as assistant dean.

SPECIALIZED DUTIES

Dean Ludlow will serve as the liaison between the college and the administration on matters concerning the whole college such as new appointments, salaries, academic rank, leaves of absence, etc.

Prof. Doxey, the former chairman of Undergraduate Studies in Religion, will be concerned with the overall course work of the college and with teaching in all three departments.

Each department chairman will be able to focus on the specific needs of his department and will be assisted by area coordinators.

Chosen as Professor of the year at BYU in 1960, Prof. Daniel H.

Ludlow has been at BYU since 1955.

Previous to 1955, he was on the faculty of Utah State University.

Dr. Ludlow received his Masters Degree at Indiana University and his Doctor of education degree at Columbia University.

He is a former holder of a Danforth fellowship. At BYU, he previously served as Director of the Institute of Mormon Studies and also Director of the Institute of Book of Mormon Projects.

His present church position is the director of Publications for the All-Church Correlation Council. He has also served in other church positions—Sunday School superintendent, member of a bishopric, high councilman, and a member of a BYU stake presidency.

Assistant Dean Doxey said the new organization will provide for "greater efficiency" and eliminate the "complexities that heretofore existed in the college."

Prof. Doxey received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from George Washington University in Economics.

Currently the president of the Provo Stake, Prof. Doxey has also served as a counselor in a bishopric, a high councilman, and a mission resident.

The professor of scripture is the author of several books. The book "Prophecies and Prophetic Promises from the Doctrine and Covenants," is his most recently published work.

He has written the current lessons for the Spiritual Living Department of the Relief Society of the Church and for the preceding twelve years.

He has also written "The Top young musicians from all over Utah will perform Friday at BYU when winners of the Utah State Fair competition are assembled for a concert.

The concert will be in the Madsen Recital Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

He feels that, "...in general, today's young people by far excel those of past generations in terms of musical excellence."

Group Elects Fairbanks

Prof. Merwin G. Fairbanks, adviser to student publications, has been elected second vice president of the National Council of College Publications Advisers. His election was announced at the annual convention of the NCCPA held last week at Miami Beach, Fla.

Prof. Fairbanks also was named to the council honor roll as one of seven advisers honored for service to student publications. His citation was for business management and administration of student publications at BYU.

The BYU adviser had previously served as director of the Rocky Mountain region of the more than 500-member NCCPA. He also is executive secretary of the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Assn., and teaches journalism as a member of the College of Fine Arts and Communications faculty.

Fairbanks also holds academic rank as assistant professor of communications. He has been publications adviser since 1962, and before that time was business editor and Church News editor at the Deseret News in Salt Lake City. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from BYU.

Pierre Hathaway, editor of THE DAILY UNIVERSE and Karen Harrison, Banyan editor, also attended the convention as delegates to the Associated Collegiate Press Convention. The Banyan was cited as a first class yearbook this year by the ACP.

Should a College Graduate Consider SALES?

We think so!

There are hundreds of exciting careers. Marketing is one, a dynamic one, and probably the major stepping stone to civic and business leadership.

At Xerox, our people are more than sellers of graphic communications equipment. They have knowledge of marketing strategy and insight as to how Xerox copiers, copier/duplicators and related equipment can meet the needs of modern business. They have a healthy regard for the importance of document flow and its implementation in every size and type company. They are able to advise businessmen at all levels on their present needs and to reasonably forecast future developments. Their thinking is business systems oriented, for this is the wave of the future. That's why we require a college degree.

We have openings at various locations throughout the Western United States. After comprehensive product and sales training, you'll become part of the dynamic picture at Xerox, where operating revenues have increased from $40 million in 1960 to over $405 million in 1968, and employment has grown from approximately 3,000 people in 1960 to over 30,000 currently.

Excellent salary and incentive compensation in addition to comprehensive benefits including profit sharing.

INTERFACE.

It's where people don't become obsolete.

There's a lot of talk these days about how fast a technical degree can become obsolete.

But don't tell our senior scientist who received his 140th patent while a half-dozen of our young engineers and scientists were getting ready to apply for their first.

In the interface of companies affiliated with Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) people are not afraid of the information explosion. They are part of it.

Our interface is a curious thing. It brings together some of the best minds in every engineering, scientific and business discipline.

Creates challenges and insights beyond those of a single company.

Forms an industry-campus interface where visiting professors get capacity audiences. And academic authorities come for summer research. And learning becomes a continuous process.

Like the continuous processes by which we produce many of the world's chemicals. And more energy than anybody else to help America get where she wants to go.

Soph Dan Bowers Is Week's TopCat

As athlete of the week, Bowers will receive a free haircut from the University Center Barber Shop and a free pizza from Rich's Pizza House.

Shades of the Los Angeles Rams? Tight ends catching six passes?

Most people are under the impression that the football game would be thrown to split receivers or on rare occasions, to a running back.

Marc Lyons did a little to change that kind of thinking as he led tightend Dan Bowers to good advantage against the University of Arizona.

Bowers caught six passes for 71 yards during the contest. One, thrown into a pawk, looked like a interception but Bowers pulled it down and completed a 2-yard scoring play.

Dan Bowers, the week's athlete of the week, hails from Mesa, Ariz. He is a junior majoring in journalism. Athletically, however, he will have two more years of eligibility since he red-shirted last season.

In high school he participated in football, basketball and track. He received tentative grant-in-aid offers from several schools in both football and basketball. In track, he high-jumped and ran the 880. But he says, "I wasn't very good at track. It helped keep me in shape."

When asked to comment on the game Dan replied, "I think it was team effort all the way. Marc Lyons called a real good game. Each pass he threw was right on target."

"We let down somewhat when we came out for the second half, but all in all, I think everyone did a great job. Bill Miller and Wes Homolik made some real nice catches when we needed them."

Dan then commented on the upcoming game with San Jose State.

It's going to be a real rough game. They've given us a lot of trouble ever since I've been here. I think we can win it though. We can win the others following it too if we work hard and live up to our promise. We can't afford to look past anyone. Kansas made that mistake with New Mexico this year and they paid for it."

Bowers currently ranks second on the team in the number of passes caught with 14. Kip Jackson is first with 17.

Both Bowers and Jackson perform again in the Stadium Saturday at 1:30 p.m. as the Cougars play the San Jose State Spartans.

Sixth-Ranked Ruggers Meet Utah

The undefeated BYU "A" Rugby team, currently ranked sixth nationally, takes on the tough University of Utah rugger Saturday at 7 p.m. on Haws Field.

All students are encouraged to show some support for the top-flight rugby team. There is no admission charge for the game.

Utah proved stronger than expected in dropping an 11-9 decision to the BYU Old Boys last Saturday.

The A team has been training for the last two weeks and team captain Duane Gettman feels that BYU is ready for another big win.

Key figures to watch will be Inoke Funaki, whose running ability has amazed fans, and Ken Carwin, former BYU football player who is one of the hardest hitting and most hustling players on the team.

Another plus factor for BYU is Wayne Cannon's experience on the forward line.

Coach John Seggar is hopeful a large crowd will be on hand to support the rugby squad. He is happy for the Utah game since scheduling problems have plagued BYU's A and B teams throughout the season.

Boxing Club Open For Use

Rise And Shout

Golden Eagles

By Mike Twitty
Sports Editor

The world's fastest moving sport has moved into Utah in the form of the nation's newest professional franchise—the Salt Lake Golden Eagles. Thousands of Utah residents have grown to love the sport although the Golden Eagles have played only six games since the inaugural win over the San Diego Gulls the 10th of October.

Thirty home games remain starting tonight with the Seattle Totem and ending April 1 with the Vancouver Canucks. All games are in beautiful new Salt Lake County Civic Auditorium better known as Salt Palace.

Tickets are available from $2-4 and, while the general admission seats are further removed from the action than the more expensive or tier seats, they are still in the arena.

BYU students who travel to Salt Lake and spend a couple of bucks on a movie would do well to stop by the Salt Palace and have a look themselves.

It's like the potato chip ad says, "You can't stop after only one."

DOESN'T TAKE LONG

Few people outside Canada have a great knowledge of hockey but doesn't take long to figure out the strategy and learn that play stopped for icing and offside and, of course, that a player must go the penalty box two minutes for a minor penalty, five for a major penalty, and ten for a misconduct penalty.

Each team plays with six men—a center, left and right wing, left and right defenseman and a goaltender—unless one or more are sent to the penalty box.

If you think fouls cause headaches for a basketball coach, you should see what a man in the penalty box does to a coach whose team has continued the game with only four men on the ice defending against five of the opposition.

As with all other sports ice hockey wasn't invented; it developed from other activities—principally Indian maneuvers in Eastern Canada.

Whatever the beginning, hockey has pushed its way from Canada to soccer has from Europe and Latin America. Presently there are six professional hockey leagues operating in the U.S. and Canada: The National Hockey League, the American Hockey League, and Central Professional League and the Western Hockey League of which Salt Lake is a part.

DAN MEYER

Credit for bringing the sport to Utah goes to Dan Meyer, a Salt Lake oil and mining executive, who took the initiative after the Salt Lake City Commission passed up the chance for a franchise.

Meyer began an incredible campaign in the Spring of 68 to convince the other teams—Denver, Phoenix, Portland, San Diego, Seattle and Vancouver—that Salt Lake could support big time sports.

When permission was granted in June of 68, he continued to amaze WHL officials by luring highly-regarded Ray Kinasevich from the Houston Apollos to be coach and general manager.

Kinasevich started a non-stop talent hunt and has put together a team which is challenging for first place in the league.

The Golden Eagles, eager to expose their team, contracted Jim Fisher to broadcast all games over KSL. Fisher has been active in Canada broadcasting fields and was general manager of the Drumheller Minor Hockey Club which in 1966 won the Canadian senior Championship.

BYU sports continue to hold preference over the AM air wave sending hockey to KSL-FM which allows sports enthusiasts in the Western U.S. to enjoy both BYU sports and the Golden Eagles.

A number of special "nights" are being sponsored by the Golden Eagles to give local fans the incentive to see the Salt Lake club perform. The DAILY UNIVERSE sports staff is making arrangements for BYU Night at the Salt Palace to give BYU students a dollar reduction on all tickets.

B-BALL NEARS

Meanwhile, in the confines of the Smith Fieldhouse, Stan Watts directs the 1969-70 basketball team in preparation for the Dec. 5 opener with Cal.

All indications are that this is a typical BYU team. The squeaky wheel disaster for any teams coming to Provo and if they can generate any momentum on the road will be in the battle for the NCAA berth which is a bigger reward than in recent years since the Milwaukee Bucks are ineligible for the NCAA title.

Coach Courtney Leishman also has some big surprises in store. Toughest is Kresimir Cosic who just might be the top freshman basketball player in the United States.

Cosic has spent four years on the Yugoslavia national team and is his country's Most Valuable Player and on the first team All-Euro selections.

His most impressive credential is that he was the center (Cosic 6-10) on the Yugoslavia team which beat Russia in the 68 Olympics Mexico City. Yugoslavia, incidentally, won the silver medal losing the U.S. in the championship game.

Cowboys Bring NCAA Soccer To Y

Jim Munt
Sports Writer

Cowboys will be the soccer team to come when they meet the 4 p.m. match Friday.

The BYU team has met NCAA members from Jose State, San Jose State, San Diego State, Colorado State, and Denver, no affiliated team ever come to BYU.

Western Athletic has decided not to enter as a conference member. The administration of each school will determine if it will field an NCAA team.

Wyoming and Colorado State, among WAC schools, currently field NCAA soccer teams. BYU, Utah, Arizona, Arizona State and New Mexico field teams playing in local club leagues. Local sources are unsure of the status of the sport at Texas-El Paso.

BYU has played Utah, Arizona and Arizona State. The team is a lifetime 5-1-1 against the Utes, 1-0 against the Wildcats and likewise 1-0 against the Sun Devils.

Wyoming plays in the strong Rocky Mountain Conference headed by 10th-ranked Air Force. Air Force, victor over BYU this year, is undefeated and tied second-ranked NCAA co-champion Michigan State. San Jose State is the current no. 1 team.

Saturday, the Cougars swing back to league action against the Hellas, a Greek club from Salt Lake and last year's B division champion. That game will be 3:30 p.m. in Provo after BYU "B" faces Simon Bolivar in a second-division game at 1:30. The "C" team will meet Utah State "B" in Logan.

Wyoming sophomore quarterback Gary Fox of Billings, Mont., completed 10 of his 11 passes in the Cowboys' victory over the Air Force football team this fall.

Bowl Game Speculation Starts

NEW YORK (AP)—Hanging out the college football wash:

The announcement of ABC-TV's Nov. 15 national wild card game is due today. A good guess would be Purdue at Ohio State, with Tennessee-Mississippi a close runner-up.

Looking ahead to the bowl picture, the Rose Bowl depends strictly on conference races, with Southern California or UCLA of the Pacific-8 hosting Purdue, Michigan or Indiana from the Big Ten.

The Southwest Conference champion—translation: the winner of the Dec. 6 Texas-Arkansas game is the Cotton Bowl host, perhaps against Penn State. Try the Texas-Arkansas loser in the Sugar Bowl against Louisiana State or Florida with the Orange Bowl pitting Tennessee and the Big Eight champion.

Marshall University saved itself some embarrassment by defeating Bowling Green 21-16 Saturday. A loss would have stretched the Thundering Herd's non-winning streak to 28 games, equaling the national major college record.

Marshall's victory touched off a wild celebration that lasted most of the night in Huntington, W. Va.

It was a particularly satisfying triumph for Marshall, which is under indefinite suspension from the Mid-American Conference for "alleged recruiting irregularities" and "lack of adequate athletic facilities."

greater opportunity for closer contact with students and with the specific academic needs of each department.

Reaction Registered On Nixon

Vietnam policies as Democratic doves and some Republicans criticized his unwillingness to announce new troop withdrawals.

"He has now truthfully taken on himself the Johnson war, and I think it is a fundamental error," Fulbright told reporters.

The Foreign Relations Committee which Fulbright heads had deferred plans for broad Vietnam hearings last week pending Nixon's speech. He said it meets Wednesday "to discuss whether it would be wise to have the hearings. My own view is that it would be. My guess is that they will approve."

Praise for the President's policy came from House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, assistant Senate GOP Leader Robert F. Griffin, and Democratic Sens. John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Henry C. Jackson of Washington, the chairman and a senior member of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"An act of great courage—and an address that promises to be a turning point in history," Griffin said.

Speaker John W. McCormack,

D-Mass., called Nixon's speech "logically stated and in our best interests. I'm confident the American people will overwhelmingly support this effort to bring peace with justice."

UTAH'S OWN

Republican members of Utah's congressional delegation praised President Nixon's televised speech to the nation on Vietnam, but Sen. Frank Moss, a Democrat, called the address a "total disappointment."

Moss said Nixon's statement Monday night was "nothing but a self-serving defense of his policies and those of his predecessors."

Sen. Wallace Bennett, on the other hand, called the speech a "masterpiece of patient, logical, practical patriotism."

"The reaction of the listener will depend on his basic attitude toward the President himself," Bennett said. "To accept him as sincere, then the whole peace plan makes very good sense."

Reps. Laurence Burton and Sherman Lloyd both said Nixon's speech was an "silent majority"

Library Changes Utilize Space

Donald T. Schmidt, assistant director at BYU's library, said that the two changes made in the arrangement of library facilities over the summer on the main floor made it more convenient for the students and utilized more space more effectively.

The first change he mentioned was the addition of two new card catalogues to accommodate the number of books the library has been acquiring over the years.

This addition made it possible to move the newspapers present location in front reserve library. The periodicals which were formerly there were moved to the reserve library which possible the addition of table.

Schmidt felt that this has the advantages of per better traffic flow into and the reserve library area. He said that this way the reserve library more readily seen by the student.

The second change was dispersal of the underground library books to the study utilization of that space reference materials.

New Program Relates To Students Personally

By Roger Aylworth
Universe Staff Writer

Reveen, a concert hypnotist, is currently performing in the Provo High School Auditorium. His show will run the rest of this week, except Thursday.

Reveen puts on a very good performance, the flavor of a carnival side show.

He opened his act with a feat of memory and then moved on to the meat of the program.

He accepted volunteers from the audience, who wished to be hypnotized and proceeded to pick out those people who would make the best subjects.

When asked whether or not he has trouble discovering people who pretend to be hypnotized he stated it is impossible to get away with it since a person who is really hypnotized reacts immediately to commands while a pretender takes time to think of what he is to do.

Reveen narrowed his group of volunteers down to eight and then put them through their paces.

He told his subjects when they stepped off the stage they would hear music, dance to the end of the auditorium, awaken and forget what they had done.

To the amazement and delight of the audience they did just as they were told. One young man awakened to find the entire audience staring at him. Obviously puzzled, he scratched his head and left the hall.

Reveen had the audience members do a variety of stunts. He caused another individual to believe the theater was on fire and told him to beg the audience to leave before they were burned.

SASSAFRAS, confederate Club's top trotting turtle in last week's Turtle Trot, crept slowly toward a "giant leap for security" as he did his part to make last week's Homecoming notable.

The ASBYU started a program to relate with students on a personal basis Tuesday.

Rock music, folk singers, a fashion show and a report on the Student Relations office from executive assistant Scott Barrett were the attractions of the program in Cannon Center at 8:15 Tuesday.

The audience wasn't very responsive to the request for feedback from Barrett and program chairman Mike Wilson, but Wilson, a freshman in political science and economics, said he anticipates that student participation will increase once the program is refined.

Future programs will have Laugh-In type skits that will leave students thinking and men's as well as women's fashions. Location for the next program is Deseret Center and such programs will be every other week in different housing areas including off-campus housing areas.

Three of the purposes outlined by Wilson for the program were as a bridge between student government and students, to tell students what's happening on the fourth floor and on the campus in general and to provide a good place for student gripes and suggestions. After this, said Wilson, students won't be able to say they didn't have a chance to speak their minds.

Highlights of the program were comedian Mike Akin, a sophomore from West Covina, Calif., whose act was a cross between Bob Dylan and Gomer Pyle and the fashions modeled by eight BYU coeds.

A crowd of 100 to 150 mostly underclassmen from the Heleman Halls participated.
